PRESIDENT'S PAGE

Dear Members,

This Quarterly contains the usual potpourri of historical and genealogical materials on the Piedmont. However, this issue contains something fairly new to our publication--articles written by members who trace our families as they left the Piedmont region and moved west to build a nation from rugged frontier land. Mrs. Bobbie Duncan McDowell's articles on the Crook family are concluded and Mrs. LaVerne Keeler Kilgore has contributed an article on the Adair family, as well as pedigree charts which elucidate its contents. The Editor wishes to give a special "Thank you" to these ladies as well as to all who contribute materials to the Quarterly. Not only does it make his task easier but it makes this more of a publication by the Society rather than for it. (Among our contributors on a regular basis are Lorene Barnett, W. E. Burns, and Bob Cartee.)

Mr. Bob Cartee has agreed to serve as acquisitions director. Please send him any materials on books and other materials for sale at the Society's address. He has also volunteered to help catalogue our library collection.

During August, some of our newspapers will be at the South Caroliniana Library being microfilmed. Mr. Allen Stokes has assured us that the newspapers will be microfilmed according to Library of Congress specifications. We appreciate his help and cooperation with this project.

Also during the fall, I plan to make a trip to Mississippi, Alabama, and Louisiana to do research. I want to ask readers in these states to send me information as to what libraries, historical site, etc. which you think would be of interest. Since I have only visited this area once--a school related trip to Jacksonville, Miss., I am only vaguely familiar with this area and would greatly appreciate any help you can provide.

Joseph R. Gainey, President

Shiloh Methodist Church, near Inman, in Spartanburg County, SC was organized around 1785. Bishop Asbury was said to have preached to this congregation. This church was disbanded in 1915 but the cemetery, which is one of the oldest in the county, is still in use. Once a year, a reunion is held here to honor one of the mother churches of Methodism in the Piedmont.

George Ellis Cannon of Spartanburg County (2 May 1827 - 9 April 1909), a Confederate veteran from Sptbg. County, was held prisoner at Point Lookout Md. He is remembered as being eccentric. He even refused to sleep on a bed. He preferred a sheepskin. However, he was active in the church. He was a trustee of Bethel Methodist and an early member of Carlisle Wesleyan. Pictured with him is his wife, Nancy Ann Tuck (27 Nov. 1828 - 18 Jan. 1908).

This picture of Laura Nettie Cook (9 Jan. 1884 - 13 Jan. 1941) was taken about the time of her marriage in 1904 to John Earl Berry. Her dress typifies that of young girls of the time. Unfortunately, this picture fails to show her pretty red hair which friends and acquaintances remark on until this very day. Laura lived her entire life in Spartanburg County.

This is the tombstone of Elizabeth Seay, the second wife of Williamson Seay. She is buried beside her son from her first marriage at New Prospect Baptist Church, Spartanburg County.

GRANDPA CROOK WAS A PREACHER

by

Bobbie Duncan McDowell

Rt 4, Box 179 A

Ripley, MS 38663

John A(rnold) Crook, eldest child of Jonathan and Lucy Arnold Crook, was born 1 Feb. 1815, Spartanburg District, South Carolina. He married about 1838 in Henderson County, Tennessee, to Letticia E. Burton, daughter of Charles and Margaret (Peggy) Spillman. Charles Burton's family had moved from Virginia to Spartanburg District, South Carolina and he and some of his brothers had moved to Kentucky. Peggy Spillman's father and grandfather Spillman had both served in the American Revolution in Virginia and her father, Thomas Spillman moved to Kentucky by 1790. Charles and Peggy Spillman Burton were married in Warren County, Kentucky in 1810 and their daughter, Lettie, was born 1 May 1821 in Simpson County (Drake's Creek formerly Warren County). The Burtons had moved to Henderson County, Tennessee by 1830. Lettie Burton Crook was a member of the Jack Creek Baptist Church where her parents were also members. She died 12 Sept. 1852 and was buried in the Hurt Cemetery, leaving seven children: Martha, James F., Margaret Jane, Lucy Frances, Nancy C., Mary E., and Sally.

John A. Crook married second to Elizabeth P. Thomas, parents unknown. She was born about 1827 in Tennessee and died between 1874 and 1880 in Tippah County, Mississippi. She is believed to be buried in the old Pisgah Cemetery near the extinct village of Ruckersville, in an unmarked grave. Pisgah, the site of an extinct Methodist Episcopal Church, is located near John A. Crook's Tippah County home on the Ripley-Pocahontas (Tennessee) stage road. Elizabeth was a school teacher and from Tippah County deeds and other records she must have had a "subscription" school.

Called to preach while a member of the Jack Creek Baptist Church, Henderson County, Tennessee about 1855, John A. Crook served as pastor at Providence, Pleasant Hill, and Ruckersville after moving to Tippah County. He also preached in Pontotoc County, Mississippi when he visited his daughter, Lucy Frances. Because of a "Brush Arbor" meeting he held there the Longview Baptist Church was founded. In 1872, J.A. Crook was listed as pastor of Bethel, Clear Creek, Union Mills, and Ruckersville Baptist churches in Tippah County. In 1874, he is shown as pastor at Bethel, Pleasant Hill, and Pleasant Grove. He once held a revival at Pleasant Hill at which forty-one people were converted.

John A. Crook moved to Tippah County, Mississippi about 1861 or 1862. The Providence Baptist Church records state: "Since April 1864 Elder John Crook has preached. . . . On the first Sabbath of each month. In the fall of 1864 the church called Elder Crook as pastor. . . . We have had no regular conference since the first Sat. in Sept. 1862. . . . distressed and troubled state of our country in consequences of the war has prevented us from meeting up to the Sat. before the first sabbath in Aug. 1865. . . ."

with 60 acres of improved land, 140 acres of unimproved land, 2 horses, 3 cows, 2 working oxen, 4 other animals, 10 sheep, 10 swine, 100 bushels of wheat, 400 bushels of corn, 10 bales of cotton, 40 pounds of wool, 10 pounds of sweet potatoes, and 50 pounds of butter.

Tippah County marriage records show that Rev. John A. Crook performed numerous weddings and Baptist Association Minutes show his pastorates. His name also appears in various other legal and miscellaneous records which reflect his standing in the community. He was only human though and was known to "loose his cool at times, especially when the team of horses he used to the buggy gave him trouble.

Land records show that he bought and sold several parcels of land while living in Tippah County.

He and his second wife had at least four children: Phineas T., Letitia, John Hubbard, and Gideon L. By 1880, Elizabeth was dead and the family was widely scattered. All the children were married, except Gideon who was in the home of Elminia Hopper, while John A. was living with his sister, Emily Tapp.

Soon after 1880, he moved to Martindale, Texas where his three youngest children were living. He died there in the home of his daughter, 'Tita and her husband, Joseph S. Porch on 18 Oct. 1888. From his obituary we learn that John A. Crook was a member of the Masonic Lodge in Martindale. The early records of the Jack Creek lodge are not available but we do know that he was a member of Jonesborough, No. 250, Jonesborough, Tippah County (MS) in 1875 (THE NORTHEAST MISSISSIPPI HISTORICAL AND GENEALOGICAL SOCIETY QUARTERLY, VOL. III, No. 4, June 1983, p. 163).

The Children

Martha, the eldest daughter, married a Dodds, evidently in Henderson County, Tennessee before 1860 as she does not show with the family in that census. B.(?) C. Dodds with his wife, Martha, was on the 1860 Henderson County census and a J.C. Dodds and wife Martha show up on the 1870 Tippah County census. They were next door to Pinkney Tapp in the Ruckersville area. There is a child, Luther E. Dodds 1868-1869, buried at Providence, Tippah County. The marker states "son of J.C. and M.C. Dodds." I believe this is Martha Crook Dodds' child. This family does not show in the 1880 census of Tippah County. Martha was born about 1840 and was dead before the settlement of the T.S. Burton estate 1889-1891 in which her children were named. Those names could fit the initials of the children of J.C. and Martha Dodds in the 1870 census. The children were: Lottie Fulwell; Joseph Dodds; Jennie McDonald, and Cuney McAdams.

James F. Crook, the second child, was born in 1842 and came with his father and family to Tippah County about 1861. Proof of this was found in the estate settlement of Harrison Stephens in which John A. Crook collected $10.00 due his "deceased son, James F." (Tippah Probate Pk. No. 442, 1869). James returned to Henderson County to enlist in the Civil War with friends and relatives. He enlisted on 30 Aug. 1861, Trenton, Tennessee. He was a member of Company I, 27th Regiment, Tennessee Infantry and died in the battle at "Culp's Farm 27 June-3 July 1864 at Kenesaw Mountain, Georgia." His uncle, Captain Robert M. Burton, of the 51st Tennessee attended to burying James in what is now the Confederate Cemetery, Marietta, GA. Information about James' death is from Wiley M. Crook's book.

Margaret Jane (my great-grandmother) was born in 1843, in Henderson County, Tennessee and was probably named for her grandmother, Peggy Spillman Burton. Her family will be discussed later.

Lucy Frances Crook was born 23 July 1846 in Henderson County Tennessee. She married Henry Thompson on 21 Nov. 1861. The Thompsons moved to Pontotoc County, Mississippi where their children grew up and many descendants still live. Aunt Lucy was killed in a cyclone on 13 Mar. 1913 at Saltillo where she was visiting her daughter, Lula Dillard. In a letter to Margaret Mathis, Lula states: "I know not hardly how to tell you the cause of Ma's death--On the thirteenth of March a terrible cyclone passed through our settlement and blowed (sic.) several houses down. There was not a shelter of any kind left at our home. Ma was blown at least fifty yards. We know not how much further she would have gone but there was a small tree on the edge of the bluff which stopped her ---Our furniture was all in splinters and---". A part of another reads: "---if we can find anything to lay her out in, so they went back to where the house was and the trunks had all blown open and the things all scattered in the tree tops and everywhere. So they couldn't find anything but when they got back up there the good neighbors had done laid her out just as nice as she could be. It was so kind in them. Yes, they brought her back to Bethel to bury. She died on Thursday, they started Friday morning--had [to] come around by Tupelo for the water was all over them bottoms, so they got her back to her home Friday night. We children all met them there.-----Saturday we laid her to rest---" Lucy's children were: Martha; Lula Letita Thompson Dillard; John William; Mary Etta Thompson Brandon; Louella; Hybernina Thompson Pound; Henry L., Jr.; Sallie Aileene Thompson Huey; Charles C.; Lucy Frances Thompson Faulkner; Luther Silas; Marshall F. Most of them reared families in the present day Pontotoc and Lee counties in Mississippi.

Nancy ("Nan") married Francis Marion Rainer on 20 July 1864 in Tippah County, Mississippi. Nan was born on 1 Apr. 1848 in Jacks Creek, Tennessee and died 28 Nov. 1879 in Tippah County, MS. She is believed to be buried in Pisgah Cemetery. The birth and death dates come from the Rainer family Bible which Velma M. Duncan obtained from Henry T. Rainer, 4306 Knight Arnold Road, Memphis, TN in 1971. He was a child of the third wife of Francis M. Rainer. Nan's children were: (From census records and the T.S. Burton estate 1891) Joel/Jodie A.; F. Etta Rainer Maclin; Mary A. (Mamie or Nan) Rainer Dawkins Maclin; Benjamin Franklin; Joel Pearl.

Mary E. Crook was born on 30 Sept. 1849 Jacks Creek, Tennessee and married Daniel Strickland Finger, son of John M. Finger and Serena Arnold on 23 Dec. 1866 in Tippah County, Mississippi. She died in Benton County, Mississippi on 18 Feb. 1882 and is buried at Black Jack Cemetery. After her death, D.S. Finger married second and later moved to Texas. Mary's children are also listed in the T.S. Burton estate. They were: Gilbert/Gilbus; T.M.; Maude Finger Johnsey, Memphis, Texas; James Arthur; Claudy Leland; and Nancy. In an undated letter written by 'Tita Crook Porch to Margaret Jane Crook Mathis, she says: "Sister Mollie's (Mary) children and sister Nan's and sister Martha's--I know not of their whereabouts but God knows so I commit them all to Him in prayer and faith believing He will save every one of them."

Sally Ann Crook was born in Henderson County, Tennessee on 16 June 1851. She married 9 Dec. 1880 at Pochontas, Tennessee, to John Zara Norris, son of Felix Norris and Sarah/Mary Ann Morgan. The Norris family came from South Carolina to Tippah County, that is now in Benton County, and were living in Memphis, Tennessee at the time of the marriage. Sallie was living with her half-sister 'Titia and her husband Joseph S. Proch. Sally was the second wife of John Z. Norris and following his death she married his brother, Jimmy Norris. He died soon after their marriage and Sallie made her home with her daughter, Valera Norris Gates and died 10 Jan. 1936 at Rolling Fork, Mississippi. Sally and John Z. Norris had two children: Valera and John Z., Jr.

Phineas T(homas) Crook was born about 1854 perhaps in Henderson County. He seems to have been the first child of John A. Crook's second wife. He is shown on the 1860 and 1870 census records with the family and he signed as a witness when John A. sold or deeded some land in the early 1870s. These meager records are all we have on him. (Frances Porch Bigelow, Memphis, TN, supplied his given name of Phineas.) I believe he died by 1874 and that he is perhaps buried at Pisgah.

Letitia ("Tetia") Eveline Crook was born 27 Feb. 1856 in Tennessee (Franklin according to Frances Porch Bigelow as of 4 Aug. 1981 interview). John A. Crook shows up on both the 1850 and 1860 Henderson County, Tennessee census records and the 1855 Jack Creek Baptist Church records. There is and was no community named Franklin in Henderson according to Lewis P. Jones of Jacks Creek, my contact and authority on Henderson County. If John A. Crook moved out of Henderson County, it was only for a short time. 'Titia was evidently named for Letticia Burton, first wife of John A. Crook, a not unusual practice. She attended the Stonewall College, formerly Ripley Female Institute at Ripley, Mississippi and taught school for at least one year in Tippah County in 1874 at Gray Mountain. Many tales have been told about her lively spirits and of her infatuation with the notorious Allen Luker at Falkner. She was a beautiful young woman and must have had many admirers. She married Dr. Joseph S. Porch on 3 March 1875. Her daughter says they were married at the Methodist Church at Falkner. In 1880, they were at Pochontas, Tennessee where they had a store. By the mid 1880s, they were in Martindale, Texas probably moving there about the same time as John Hubbard Crook. In Martindale, 'Titia had a millinery shop and John A. Crook died at her home in Martindale in 1888. Later the Porch family lived in Eureka Springs, Arkansas where Dr. Porch had a drug store. They must have been there by the early 1900s and continued to live there until 'Titia's death in 1925. Her address at death was number 30 Eureka Street. She was buried in the Odd Fellows Cemetery there. Her children were scattered from Memphis to Texas. It was Aunt 'Titia's old letters to Grandma Mathis which gave us so many clues for this family research; letters which my grandmother had saved! 'Titia's children were: Joseph (Joe); Homer; John; Frances Porch Bigelow; Nellie Porch West.

John Hubbard Crook, named for a merchant in Jacks Creek, was born in 1858. He grew up in Tippah County on the family farm near Ruckersville, Mississippi. He accompanied his father on his preaching rounds, joining the Pleasant Hill Baptist Church with him in 1874 when John A. served as pastor there. Pleasant Hill Missionary Baptist Church is not to be confused with the Pine Hill (Pleasant Hill) Primitive Baptist Church in Tippah County. In 1878, John Hubbard Crook married Sopphronia Embrey, daughter of neighbors--Jasper and Amelia Embrey. Both of Sopphronia's parents were deceased by December of 1879 (Tippah Probate Pkt. No. 501) when John H. and Sopphronia were living near Denmark, Tennessee. The probate records give their address as Madison County, Tennessee but the 1880 census shows them in adjoining Haywood County. They moved soon afterwards to Martindale, Texas where they lived out their lives. In Martindale, he operated a store and cotton buying business. He and his wife and others of the family are buried in the little cemetery on the bank of the San Marcos River there. Numerous descendants live in the Martindale-San Marcos area at present.

Gideon L. Crook, the youngest child of John A. Crook was born in Henderson County just prior to the family's move to Mississippi where he grew up. After his mother's death, he lived for a time with his father's sister, Elminia Hopper. He probably went with his father to Martindale to live with 'Titia and John Hubbard. He died in Martindale in 1883 and is buried in the Crook plot in the Martindale Cemetery. Frances Porch Bigelow says that he was studying for the ministry when he died.

Margaret Jane Crook Mathis

Margaret Jane Crook, third child of John A. Crook and his first wife Letticia E. Burton, was born on 12 Sept. 1843 near Jacks Creek in Henderson County, Tennessee. She was probably named for her grandmother Margaret "Peggy" Spillman Burton as Margaret was a name handed down in that family for several generations. She came to Tippah County, Mississippi with her family and sometime before 1870 went to live with her aunt Elminia Hopper. At age 27, she married on 1 Jan. 1871 to Thomas Mathis, a widower with several children. There is a story told that Margaret Jane lacked a proper dowry, but I doubt that this troubled a man who needed a wife to care for his family. Grandma Mathis is reported to have been reluctant to talk much about her family background even when asked, and this seeming indifference leaves us with little knowledge of her life except for the things her children and grandchildren could tell us.

Turner Mathis was the son of Israel and Margaret Mathis who came to Mississippi from Newberry County, South Carolina about 1851. His first wife was Sarah Ray, daughter of Reuben Ray and Martha Jeans also of Laurens and Newberry counties, South Carolina.

Turner and Margaret Crook Mathis had seven children: Benjamin Hardy; John Hubert; Mark Lowrey; Letticia; Cora; Clara; Homer Parl. Hardy, Hubert, Cora and Clara all died young with no issue.

Mark married Ida Tomilson and reared a family in Tippah County. Homer married Kate Drewry and lived in Tippah County. Letticia (Lettie), my grandmother, married Porter Sammons McMillin, son of Joseph Jefferson McMillin and Catherine Wright Byrd. They lived on a little farm north of Falkner, Mississippi and reared three daughters: Velma, my mother; Rivers, and Estelle. Their only son died at about nine years of age; Pearl Crook McMillin.

Turner Mathis died in 1905 and Margaret lived until 8 Aug. 1928. She is buried at Providence Baptist Church Cemetery, Tippah County beside Turner.

For more personal details on Margaret Jane Crook, her descendants, and the Mathis family see THE MATHIS FAMILY AND RELATED LINES 1430-1983 compiled by Bobbie D. McDowell 1983.

EDITOR'S NOTE: For a review of Mrs. McDowell's book and how to obtain it see page 97 of the April 1984 issue (Volume II, Number 2).

ARNOLD NOTES

by

Bobbie Duncan McDowell

Rt 4, Box 179 A

Ripley, MS 38663

John Arnold, parents unknown, appears to have moved from Virginia to Spartanburg District, South Carolina by 1810 and to have died there by 1813 (will). His wife, Nancy, and the children are named in the will.

Family tradition gives his wife as Nancy Mitchum. Mitchum is used as a given name in the family for several generations. No Mitchum family shows on the 1790 Virginia census, nor do we have any other proof.

In Spartanburg District, South Carolina one Benjamin Arnold/Arenol/Arrendale died in 1812 (probate 6 Apr. 1812) (Page 72-77 THE ARNOLD FAMILY ASSOCIATION OF THE SOUTH, VOL. II, No. 2, Nov. 1971). His heirs were the widow Mary; Children: Thomas, Charles, Willis, Wiley, Joel, John, Absolum, Susanna, wife of Samuel Elders and Polly, wife of Zebedee Stanton. Note the use of given names which are used in our John's family. However, John the son of Benjamin was still living in 1828 when he deeded some land to his brother, Wiley. Therefore, our John was not the son of Benjamin but could have been related in some way. This is suggested by the fact that Cerena Arnold Finger of Tippah County, Mississippi was thought to be related to Lucy B. Arnold Crook and that Cerena's father may have been named Absolum Arnold (another family tradition).

The birthplaces of John and Nancy Arnold's children, given on census records of 1850 and later, support the theory that they did not move into South Carolina until 1805-1810.

By the early 1820s Nancy, widow of John Arnold, and some of their children were in Madison County, Alabama and by the 1830s and 1840s most of them had moved on into Henderson County, Tennessee and Tippah County, Mississippi. By 1850, they had scattered into other counties and states.

Nancy Mitchum Arnold married secondly to Thomas Haislip on 30 June 1818 in Madison County, Alabama (Marriage Book 2, p. 101). She lived with him in Franklin County, Tennessee where he was tried, but not convicted (doesn't say what he was tried for). After differences with Haislip, she returned to Alabama.

Madison County, Alabama court records state that "about 1816 Nancy, the widow of John Arnold, William and the minor children moved to Madison County." In Feb. 1824, Nancy Arnold Haislip was again living in Alabama with her son William.

The children named in John's will and the Madison County, Alabama court records were:

(1) William Arnold born perhaps 1785-1790 in Virginia; married before 1810 South Carolina and died 15 Aug. 1830 in Henderson County, Tennessee. His wife was Nancy Merideth born in South Carolina and died 1856 in Smith County, Texas where she went with some of her children.

(2) Frances (Fanny) Arnold, born 2 Feb. 1788 in Virginia and died Oct. 1862 in Smith County, Texas. She married Richard Shackelford, (Jr.), son of Rev. Richard Shackelford, Sr. and Mary Ann Roberts of Spartanburg and Laurens counties, South Carolina.

(3) James Arnold born on 25 Dec. about 1790, married Jane Melton from South Carolina and died in Henderson County, Tennessee on 22 Sept. 1872.

(4) Willis Arnold born 15 Dec. 1794, according to his gravestone, (perhaps 1792) in Virginia; married Charlotte Farrow, daughter of William and Rhoda Waters Farrow, of Spartanburg County, South Carolina, and died 16 Feb. 1867 in Henderson County, Tennessee. They are buried in Unity Baptist Church Cemetery and had no children.

(5) Lucy B. Arnold (1794-1869) married Jonathan Crook, son of James and Mary Williams Crook. [EDITORS NOTE: For information on this couple, see "Jonathan Crook Forgotten Frontiersman" on pages 66-70 of the April 1984 (Volume II, Number 2) of this Quarterly.]

(6) Mary (Polly) Arnold (ca.1801-1888) married Jeremiah Crook, son of James and Mary Williams Crook. They went to Henderson County, Tennessee where they remained.

(7) Nancy Arnold born about 1804 in Virginia; married on 20 Sept. 1817 to Samuel A. Allen in Madison County, Alabama and moved to Henderson County, Tennessee.

(8) Sarah Arnold who is said to have married John C. Autrey.

(9) George Mitchum Arnold born about 1807 in South Carolina and whose wife was named Sarah (perhaps a Hament?). He was in Henderson County, Tennessee in 1850.

William Arnold had children born in South Carolina, Alabama, and Tennessee and following his death, his wife and some of the younger children went to Texas.

Fanny Arnold Shackelford's children were also born in South Carolina, Alabama, and Tennessee. Some of her children came to Tippah County, Mississippi and to Tishomingo County, Mississippi, where some descendants live today.

MRS. McDOWELL'S NOTE: Some of the Arnold material was obtained from Gertrude Crook Dean, of Midway, Georgia.

BURTON FAMILY NOTES

by

Bobbie Duncan McDowell
Rt 4, Box 179 A
Ripley, MS 38663

John Burton and his brother, Thomas of Cobbs, settled in Virginia in what became Henrico County. They were likely born in England and came to America as young men. Their parentage has not been proven. The data in Worth S. Ray's TENNESSEE COUSINS about the parents of Thomas could not possibly be correct. John's wife may have been Rachel Hutchins/Howchins. He patented "Longfield Plantation" Henrico County 22 Mar. 1665. He died by 1 Apr. 1690 (will proven). His children were: Mary; Rachel; Ann; John Jr.; Robert, Benjamin and William.

Robert Burton (1660-1723/24), son of John of Longfield, married Mary Nowell, daughter of John Nowell, merchant of Charles City County, Virginia, and his wife, Lydia Perkins. Their children were: Robert; Nowell; Hutchins; Benjamin and John.

Hutchins Burton, son of Robert, was born on 9 Apr. 1694 and married Susannah Allen, daughter of Samuel Allen of New Kent County, on 31 Mar. 1719. Hutchins died in 1763 in Henrico County. They had eleven children, one of whom was Charles. (Burton-Price Bible Record, National Genealogical Society Quarterly, June 1959)

Charles Burton, son of Hutchins and Susannah Allen Burton, was born on 4 May 1734 in Henrico County, Virginia. He lived in Pittsylvania and Mecklenburg counties in Virginia and in Spartanburg County, South Carolina. Although he patented over 4,000 acres in Kentucky, he probably never lived there. Several of his children went to Kentucky. Charles died in Spartanburg County, South Carolina about 1800. His wife, Mary (Hunt by tradition), died there in 1807 leaving a will which named their children. They were: Sally who married John Wier in Virginia; William; Nathan/Nathaniel; Samuel; Cuthbert; Charles Jr.; David; Drury who married Mary "Polly" Bright in Kentucky, a daughter of Tobias Bright and Rachel Gooden also from Spartanburg County; Mary who married James Bright, brother of Polly; Nancy; John Anderson; (Susannah) who married Robert George.

Charles Burton, Jr., son of Charles and Mary, was born about 1771 in Mecklenburg County, Virginia. The Burtons were in Pittsylvania County, Virginia by 1773 and in Spartanburg County, South Carolina by 1788. Charles Jr. was in Warren County, Kentucky by 1809 and married there on 4 May 1810 to Margaret "Peggy" Spillman, daughter of Thomas Spillman and Mary Massey from Culpepper County, Virginia. Their children were: Maria born about 1811 in Warren

County, Kentucky; Nancy married Thomason; Thomas S. born 1819 in Kentucky and died in 1885 in Wise County, Texas; Sarah (S.A.S.) married John D. Cross in Henderson County, Tennessee about 1840; Letticia E. born about 1821 in Simpson County, Kentucky, married about 1838 to John A. SOME OF THE FOREFATHERS OF ANDERSON COUNTY

There is a spot of some interest half way between Belton and Williamston, three miles from Calhoun, and three from Cooley's Bridge. It is the intersection of the Calhoun, Anderson, Williams-ton and Belton roads; the old muster ground. There elections were held. About 1855 Berry Lewis ran a store there. It also boasted a tailor shop, run by Mr. Jesse Smith, afterwards one of Anderson's best known merchant tailors, or men's clothiers. A whipping post stood at the place for correction of both black and white. Big Creek was the church and burial ground for the community.

Muster grounds were at various convenient places in the early days, because every man between the ages of eighteen and forty-five belonged by law to the militia, and were compelled to undergo some military training. That also accounts for the frequency of mili-tary titles among the earlier people.

Stephen McCully, an Irishman, came in the early times and settled first at Whitehall, where he manufactured shoes for the surround-ing territory. Later he became one of Anderson's leading mer-chants, a public spirited man, and a wealthy one for his time. He donated the ground on which Johnson Female University was built.

In 1829 there was born in the Calhoun settlement a baby boy who was destined to play a part in the history of the little town which had been started in the woods the year before he was born. He was George W. Fant, eldest son of William Fant. In his child-hood his parents moved to Garvin township, near Pendleton, where he grew up. At about twenty years of age he located in Anderson and worked on the Gazette when Todd and Russell were its publish-ers. In 1856 Mr. Fant was appointed postmaster, which position he held until 1880. He married Miss Myra Williamston, and T.J. Webb married her sister Elizabeth. Dr. Webb was postmaster and also book seller, and his business passed first into the hands of his son, T.J. Webb, and from him to his brother-in-law, G.W. Fant. The book store of Fant and Son is still Anderson's chief source of literature; other book stores have come and gone in the years that have elapsed since Mr. Fant first began to sell books to the Anderson people, but that one remains, still in the hands of the same family. That and Tolly's furniture establishment are the two oldest business houses in the place. Mr. George W. Fant was the father of Anderson's Mayor, Foster Fant. His other children were the late Rufus Fant, Theo Fant, the late Ben Fant, Walter Fant, of Texas; Neb Fant, of Walhalla; Mrs. Belle Fant Acker and Mrs. Lillie Fant Grant, of Oklahoma.

John Brown, of the Neal's Creek section, had two sons who became foremost citizens of the county; they were Daniel and Samuel Brown. The name of Daniel Brown is found often in connection with most of the early Anderson enterprises. He located in the town, and took at once a leading position. He built the first brick house in the town. It was later destroyed by fire, and his books and accounts were saved by the courage and coolheadedness of a young son. The first discussion of the proposed Johnson Female Seminary was in his house. It was he who was instrumental in securing the services of the fine teachers, Mrs. Daniel and the Misses Payne.

Before 1860, McDuffie was a rather short street. It started at Earle street and ran to Mr. Daniel Brown's home place, Sunnyside, which was a suburban residence standing on many acres, and blocked the street about where the Boys' High School and other buildings in that vicinity stand. Mr. Brown opened the street through his property on the Shockley Ferry Road, which was about at the Fulwer

Watson place. The street had been named for Governor McDuffie, who was a great favorite in Anderson, but there was a movement started then to change the name to Brown Street. It, however, was not carried out, and while Mr. Brown deserves to be remembered and honored, still it is rather fortunate that the street retains its name, and one which attracts favorable attention. Some years ago the Episcopal Church held its diocesan convention in Anderson, and the Reverend John Johnson, rector of St. Philip's in Charleston, and distinguished for his services in the Charleston Harbor during the war, was entertained in a home on McDuffie Street. He was struck with the name, and remarked that he believed that to be the only street in the state which honored Governor George McDuffie by being called for him.

In 1876, when the State redeemed itself from radical rule, Mr. Brown was too feeble to leave his home, but a crowd of his old friends came for him in a carriage, and bore him to the polls to cast his last vote for Hampton and reform. He lived until after the election, and news was brought to him of Hampton's election. He made no immediate reply, but feebly smiled, and in a few minutes said: "I will sleep now," and turning away fell into the sleep that knows no waking.

He had five sons in the Confederate army. His eldest, J.J. Brown, was killed with his colonel, John V. Moore, in one of the first battles around Richmond. His youngest son, Nardin Brown, member of Company C, under Captain Prue Benson, was killed at Second Manassas, and lived long enough after he was wounded to send his mother a message. He asked one of his comrades to tell her that he was doing his duty, and he died happy.

Mr. Brown's second wife was Eleanor St. Clair (Waller) Nardin, a widow when he married her, and mother of Anderson's dearly loved Dr. Waller H. Nardin, Sr.

Mr. Samuel Brown, brother to Mr. Daniel Brown, did not live in the town. For a time he resided a little distance out, where the McCown home is now on the Belton road. It was there that his son, Joseph Newton, was born. Later Mr. Brown moved to Townville and he became identified with that community, though his son, J.N. Brown, was to become Anderson's wealthiest citizen. Mr. Samuel Brown married Helena Vandiver, daughter of Reverend Sanford Vandiver, the first pastor of the Anderson Baptist Church. Young Newton Brown attended school under Wesley Leverette. In 1855 the young man decided to go to Laurens to live. He engaged in merchandising in that place for two years, then entered the law office of Colonel J.H. Irby and began to study law. He was admitted to the bar in 1858, and became a partner of Colonel Irby. The partnership was dissolved by the death of Colonel Irby in 1860. Then the four years of war intervened, and after the war he married Miss Lizzie Bruce, of Townville, and they made Anderson their home. Colonel Brown has stood very high in the legal profession and in the financial affairs of Anderson for many years. He accumulated the largest property that any one has ever made in the town.

He has been prominent in the Baptist Church all of his life, and has left a greater part of his property to be used for missionary work after the death of his only child, Miss Varina D. Brown.

The Anderson Library received a generous donation at his hands; he gave the lot upon which it was built, and the sum of ten thousand dollars to be invested, and the income used in the upkeep of the library and the purchase of books.

Another of the early settlers in the county was Captain James Thomson. He was one of the commissioners who laid off the town. Captain Thomson's home was on Beaver Creek, near Rocky River. He was the grandfather of Dr. M.A. Thomson.

Among the pioneers was Edward Vandiver, who came from Maryland just after the Revolutionary War. He was born in that State in 1748, and served in the Revolutionary War. He was once a soldier under Captain Andrew Thomas; also he served under Captain Amandus Leslie, and his colonels were Winnie and Easterland. He fought in the battle of Eutaw Spring, and drew a pension from South Carolina. In 1782 he was serving under Colonel Brestling at Four Hole Bridge. He died at his home near Neal's Creek Church in 1837, and is buried in that church yard. Edward Vandiver was the father of twenty children, all boys but two. He was twice married, first to Helena Turley, and second to Catherine Poole. He had seven sons who were Baptist preachers, the most distinguished of whom was Sanford Vandiver.

Another pioneer of the county was David Sadler, also a Revolutionary soldier. He died in 1848 and is buried in Roberts church yard, having been a faithful member of that church. His wife was Miss Eliza Bratton, of York County.

Other families which made their appearance in Anderson with the first tide of emigration are those of Breazeale, Gambrill, Kay, Major, Erskine, Shirley, Long, Roseman, Wellborn, John Goodwyn, to whom public lands had been granted, and who signs his name in a copper plate hand; Field Farrar, also one to whom public land had been granted (he was sheriff of Ninety-Six district in 1780); Henry Stevens, professor of music; Louis D. Martin, another land grantee in 1789; Thomas Jones, and Betty, his wife, sell land on First creek, a branch of Rocky river. The grant had been made in 1785 to Betty Wilkison, probably some enterprising woman, who had taken up land and was doing something for herself until she fell under the spell of Thomas Jones, and marrying him, lost land as well as liberty and name. Anderson Lee has a grant of land on Hen Coop creek; James Shirley on Rocky River; William Wheeler on the south side of Saluda River, dated October 3rd, 1785. In December, 1798, John Mauldin has a grant of land on "Government Creek," a branch of "Great Rocky Creek." Among early settlers on Six and Twenty Creek appear the names of Jonathan Clark, David Clark, Bolin Clark, George Forbes, John McMakin, Hugh McVay, and James Long. In various other parts of the district appear the names of James Highshaw, William Duncan, Emerial Felton, John Fields, Colonel Richard Lewis, William Walker, Benjamin Dickson, John McAlister, Edward Morgan, Solomon Geer and Thomas Harrison. Most of these men take out brands for their cattle. Duncan Cameron and Mary, his wife, sell land granted them on One Mile creek. John Caruthers, Martha Lemon and Robert Lemon, her son, William Holleman, Justice of the Peace John Miles, James Moreland, on Rocky River; Harry Pearson on Six and Twenty; Joseph Woodall, Joshua Hill, William Hammond, James Martin, Samuel Taylor, "Jon" Winn, Robert Tate has a grant on Seneca river in 1784 (he spells it "Senekaw"); John Hugner, John Postelle, William Lowery, Isaac Titworth, James Crowder, David Brag, Samuel Caldwell, James Hamilton, and Benjamin Farmer.

In 1791 the records begin to be made in Pendleton county, Washington district, not Ninety-Six, as formerly. These good people in place of making oath on the Holy Bible, made their oaths on "The Holy Evangelists," no Hebrew scripture for them to swear by.

Some of the business men of the days preceding the War Between the States were John P. Benson and Joel J. Cunningham, Baylis F. and Thomas S. Crayton, Elias Earle, Alexander Evans and John C. Griffin, Fleetwood Rice and John R. Towers, Alexander B. and Joel J. Towers, Daniel Brown, Stephen McCully, Jesse R. Smith, Asbury M. Holland, J.N. Pendleton, Enoch B. Benson and Son, John S. Lawton, John C. and Henry C. Cherry, John and Thomas J. Sloan, John Hastie and Co. These were all of the village in the year 1849.

This list was furnished, along with a list of all of the merchants of the county, by an Anderson lawyer of the time to a New York business man who wrote asking him for confidential information about the merchants. He was a shrewd man, and his opinion and comments on the business men of his time are worth reading, as they tell the reader what kind of people formed the county. The lawyer is very frank and very full in his information, tells the ages of the men, whether married or single, number of children and approximates the value of each man's property. Often he says, "Is good for more than he will promise," tells whether he buys and sells for cash or credit, whether his credit is good. Sometimes he says some man has married a rich widow, and can use her property, which he will to his advantage. Of one he says he is extravagant, hasn't much sense, but is full of high notions--"If he is worth any property I don't know it." Of one he says: "He hasn't much sense, but he knows it; is cautious and will not venture much." Of another he says: "He hasn't much education, but is a fine business man, and 'a perfect shaver as you ever saw.' He owns town lots worth $5,000, has land in the vicinity worth $-000, has $2,000 or $3,000 in stocks, and bank, and about 40 slaves; he merchandises and farms, buys and sells on credit, owes money at home, but pays promptly. His father is a rich man, very old, and when he died will come in for a good share. If he should visit North those who sell him much will earn all the profit they make."

Seven or eight or ten thousand dollars was wealth, and forty negroes a great number; most of them owned two or three slaves. Only one man is quoted as having a hundred, and lands worth $20,000, and a capital of $100,000.

He winds up his account by writing: "Above you have a pretty full account of all the merchants of any importance in the district. It may strike you that my account of our merchants is rather a eulogy, I could not, however, say less and tell the truth. I feel certain that I am under the mark oftener than over it."

OUR BRAVE ADAIRS

by

LaVerne Keeler Kilgore
6144 Whitman Avenue
Ft. Worth, Texas 76133

Editor's Note: Mrs. Kilgore has recently submitted this information on her D.A.R. application, which was approved. Since then, she has received some information which leads her to question some on the links in this line. Her information shows that John Adair (son of Joseph, Jr.) had a son William (born 1792/1799). Her ancestor William Adair wed in 1823 to Susannah Davis Rooker of York County, SC. They had the following children: John Rooker, William Dorsey, James M., Elizabeth (Ann?), Benjamin Joseph (her g-g-grandfather), Mary M., Juliette, and Saphronia Caroline. Other lines claim that John Adair's son William (b. ca. 1792) married Posthemia Bosman and had John Thomas and Elizabeth Adair. Both Williams were born at about the same time and place in SC. In later years, both moved to the same area in Georgia--Morgan and Henry counties--where they died. Mrs. Kilgore would appreciate any help that can be offered on this problem.

In 1730 Thomas Adair, his wife, and three of their sons immigrated to America. They settled in Chester County, Pennsylvania, near Philadelphia. These sons were James, Joseph, and William. (If Thomas had other children left behind, we do not know.) The family came from County Antrim, Northern Ireland, where all had been born. Thomas was born in 1680 the son of Alexander Adair and the grandson of Rev. Patrick Adair. Patrick had married his cousin Jean Adair, the daughter of Sir Robert Adair, also of County Antrim. This family line was descended from the Adairs of Galloway which is a branch of the Anglo-Norman family of the Fitz Gerald of Ireland. [References 3,4]

James Adair was born about 1700. He had acquired from the British Crown a grant of land near Waxaw Colony in what is now the lower part of Laurens County, South Carolina. The whole Thomas Adair family moved about 1750 to develop that tract of land called the Adair Grant. [3,4] James, however, did not remain too long with the others. He moved on west to North Carolina where he lived with and wrote about the Cherokee Indians. It is said many Indian children could have carried the surname "Adair"--some did. There is/was a town in the area called Adair(s)ville which bore his name and which he helped to populate. James was a prolific author (as well). His favorite subject was the Cherokees and their customs. He died in North Carolina.

William Adair was born in 1710. He was married to Mary Moore (born 1720). William and Mary moved to South Carolina with the others. Later, about 1778, they moved their family to Kentucky. One of their sons, General John Adair, became the eighth governor of Kentucky. William and Mary spent their later years in Mercer County, Kentucky, and were buried at Whitehall in that county. [3,

Joseph Adair (born 1711) was 19 when the family came to America. He had probably been trained as a cooper (barrel maker), or received that training after he was here. In 1732 he married Sarah Laferty (born 1715) of Pennsylvania. Joseph and Sarah had at least six children--probably seven. The oldest of these, Joseph, Jr., was born in 1733. He and all the others were born in Chester County. They were James (1734-1818), Benjamin (1736-1823), Leah (married Joseph Ramage), Mary (married John Owen), and Sarah. There may have been another daughter who married Robert Long. In his later years, Joseph Sr. married Susannah Long of South Carolina. They had one son who died young. [1]

Joseph, Sr. served his country as a soldier in the Revolutionary War from about 1779-1783. At this time he was in his seventies. He served as Commissary of Company D in Col. Casey's Regt. The following is a copy of a bill paid by Joseph to William Adair out of State of South Carolina funds:

Sterling L 96-5-8

Received satisfaction

The State of South Carolina, in account with William Adair..
Sept 19th 1781

Receipt of William Adair, 1070cwt. of Flour; 5½ bu of Wheat; 5 bu of Corn for the use of widows and distressed families in Col. Casey's Regiment.

per Joseph Adair, D Company [1,6]

Sworn by Colonel Casey

Since the Continental Congress had no power to tax or raise funds, each state was responsible for recruiting and paying its own soldiers for military service as well as its own citizens for supplies they furnished for the military and civil populations in need. The northern part of Laurens County was a Tory stronghold. In 1780 these Tories burned the court house at Laurens and the private residences of many of the prominent Adairs. [1]

The area the Adairs settled was on Duncan's Creek. Nearby was the Duncan Creek Church, a stone structure built in 1767, which still stands. It was in this church that Joseph, Sr. served as a Presbyterian elder for forty years. (The Adairs have provided many Presbyterian ministers through the decades.) Joseph died in 1801 at the age of 91 and lies buried in the Duncan Creek cemetery. His will which he made and filed in the Laurens County court house reads:

I give and bequeath to my wife, Susannah, all Cattle, Hogs, and Pewter; $160. Continental Dollars, all grain, farming tools, beds and bedsteads.

I give my sons James and Joseph Jr., the remainder of the Continental money, Imported bedsteads, and Arm Chairs.

I give to my son Benjamin, half of my Cooper tools; also twenty pounds old currency.

I give to my daughters, Leah Ramage, Sarah Adair, and Mary Owens, each twenty pounds old currency.

[Signed] Joseph Adair, Sr. [1]

Joseph Adair, Jr. was 17 when the family moved to South Carolina. Here he completed his education which was begun in Pennsylvania. As a successful farmer and businessman, he improved his lands and became the owner of a number of slaves. In 1758, he was married to Sarah Dillard (born 1736) of Amherst, Virginia. Sarah's parents were James and Lucy (Wise) Dillard; her grandparents James Stephen and Louise (Page) Dillard; her great-grandfather was George Dillard. George Dillard was born in Wiltshire, England and came to Virginia in 1660. He fought the Indians with the Colonial Militia of Virginia at Jamestown. For this service he received a grant of 250 acres of land. [1,5]

Joseph, Jr. and Sarah had eight children: John, James, Robert, Elisha, Elizabeth, Jane, Casey, and Charity. All were born in Laurens County, South Carolina. Later the sons and their families moved to other southern states: John to Georgia, James and Robert to Tennessee, and Elisha to Perry County, Alabama, then later on to Texas. [1,3,5]

Joseph, Jr. also answered the call to serve in the Revolutionary War. He "was with Colonel Lacy at Hawk's defeat."

Joseph, Jr. died on 17 October 1812, at the age of 79. He also is buried in the Duncan Creek Cemetery. His will, which is on file at the Laurens County courthouse, states:

I will to my son, John Adair, wife Jane Jones, One parcel of land.

To my son, James Adair, wife Elenor, One tract of land.

To Robert Adair, my son, money and silver breeches buttons.

To Elisha Adair, my son, one tract of land.

To Joseph Alexander Adair, my grand son, silver coat buttons.

To Elizabeth Adair Hughston, my daughter, One Negro girl.

To Jane Adair Holland, my daughter, one Negro girl.

To Casey Adair McCrary, my daughter, one Negro woman.

To Charity Adair Little, my daughter, One Negro Woman.

[Signed] Joseph Adair, Jr. [1]

John Adair was the eldest son of Joseph, Jr. and Sarah Adair. He was born in 1759 in his parent's farmhouse. He received a common school education. He learned agriculture and the trade of saddle making. [1]

John was a third generation patriot. Like his father, Joseph, Jr., and his grandfather, Joseph, Sr., before him, he served in the Revolutionary War. At age 20 in 1779 he joined the Continental Army and was on active duty to the end of the war in 1783. He was involved in a number of battles and was captured near Charlotte, North Carolina. General Smallwood secured the release of John and seven fellow prisoners through an exchange. A copy of General Smallwood's letter is given below:

General Smallwood to Lord Cornwallis:
Camp, October 24, 1780.

Sir:

The prisoners taken in the neighborhood of Charlotte, whose name[s] you will observe below, I understand are very solicitous to obtain an exchange. Perhaps your Lordship would have no objection to admit of a partial exchange of those persons for a like number in our possession, whose situation and circumstances may not be altogether dissimilar. If this proposition should meet with your approbation, you will be so obliging as to signify it, that the exchange may take place.

Respects, etc., etc.,

W. Smallwood

In 1783, John Adair married Jane "Jennie" Jones. Their twelve children were: Joseph Alexander-1784, John Fisher-1785, Hiram-1788, Jones Benjamin-1798, Elizabeth-1791, William-1792/9, Mary L.-1796, Farmer-1792, Susan-1800, Sallie-1806, James T.-1790, Joel Hayden-1808, and James-1806(?).

In 1800, John and Jane moved their children to Morgan County, Georgia, where John died in 1812. Jane lived until 1850 when she died in Perry County, Alabama. [1,3,4,5]

The sixth child of John and Jane was William who was born 1792/9 in Laurens County, South Carolina. He moved to Morgan County with the others. Some time later, he moved to Locust Grove in nearby Henry County, Georgia, where he established a large farm. In 1823 he was married to Susannah Davis Rooker who was born in 1800 in York County, South Carolina. They became the parents of eight children, all of whom were born at Locust Grove. These children were: John Rooker-1824, William Dorsey-1828, James M.-1831, Elizabeth Ann-1834, Benjamin Joseph-1837, Mary M.-1840, Juliette-[date not given by Mrs. Kilgore], and Saphronia Caroline-1839/42. We do not know the date of William's death, but Susannah died in 1886 at Locust Grove. [3,4]

William and Susanna named their fifth child Benjamin Joseph. He was born in 1837, and about 1854 he married Nancy E(lla) Harris. The children of this marriage were: Emma Jane-1855, Saphronia Ella-1856, William John-1860 (died in infancy), and Jeffie Lee (Benjamin Joseph)-1862. Benjamin Joseph was true to family tradition. When the Civil War came to the nation, he enlisted as a private. He enlisted on April 1, 1862, and fought with Company F, 53rd Regiment Georgia Infantry. Less than a year later, while fighting at Fredricksburg, Virginia, he became ill with a fever. On February 21, 1863, he was admitted to Chimbarzo Hospital in Richmond, Virginia. There he died of pneumonia on 23 February 1863. [8] He was 26 years old. Back home was a young wife and three little children. Nancy applied for a widow's pension to the State of Georgia on April 9, 1891. The pension was granted. She received one hundred dollars--twenty-eight years after Benjamin's death. [7,9]

Saphronia Ella Adair was born 31 October 1856 in Henry County, Georgia, the daughter of Benjamin J. and Nancy Harris Adair. She became the wife of Joseph Washington Shirey on 9 October 1874, in Henry County. She and Joe lived for a while at Rome, Floyd County, Georgia, where at least two of their children were born: Nancy Susan in 1875 and Thomas Jefferson in 1877. Their sons Newman Evander-1880 and William Benjamin-1882 were also born in Georgia. Then they moved to Marshall County, Alabama, where these children were born: Minnie Aurora-1892, Bessie Liller-1889, Lela Eppsie-1900, Joseph Green-1894, and Ella Jane ("Jennie")-1886. Joe Shirey became a successful farmer and owned a rather large tract of land. Some of this land had stands of timber. Some time after 1891, Nancy Harris Adair left Georgia and came to live with her two daughters, Emma Jane Colvin and Nancy Susan Shirey. The Shirey family was quite active in the Macedonia Baptist Church at McVie [Marshall County, Alabama]. Joe (died 1922) and Ella (died 1936) are buried in that cemetery. Nancy Adair is buried in the Concord Cemetery in the Colvin plot with Emma and her husband Thomas Mosley Colvin. [7]

Nancy Susan Shirey became the bride of Willis Harrison Grigsby Chambers on 4 March 1892. They were married in the home of her parents--Joe and Ella Adair Shirey. In 1893 the couple moved to Brown County, Texas. To them nine children were born: Walter Raleigh, Lola, Lillie Pearl, Ina Lizette, Allie (Jane), Opal Eugenia, Annie Velarie, Joseph Weldon Bailey, and O.B.

As their forebearers had done, all three sons of Nancy Susan Shirey Chambers (plus numerous sons-in-law, grandsons, and grandsons-in-law) answered the call to duty--Walter Raleigh served in World War I; Weldon and O.B. Chambers served in World War II. [7]

It is ancestors such as these that make us PROUD!!

From Harry D. Adair:

"Our clan came from Troy. Later settled in Florence, Italy for a long time. Known as Gherrardinis (Geraldines in English) and came with William the Conqueror (King William the first) to England in 1066. Here they were Fitzgeralds. We have much of this (proven), but it is spotty. They later "exited" to Scotland and Ireland because of political pressure, and this was the core of the family."

GARRETT WOODS/WOODS HILAND

Betty Garrett Horn, 4805 N. Locust St., North Little Rock, AR 72116

Would like information on the Benjamin Franklin Garrett family. I would like to find his parents and siblings. Benjamin Franklin Garrett was born ca. 1817/1818 in NC/SC. He married Sarah (Sally) Wood/Woods (born Aug. 1820 died March 14, 1911). I first found them on the 1850 Laurens District, SC census. Benjamin Franklin Garrett might have died 6 July 1899 and was buried in the Ben Hiland cemetery (location unknown), SC--this I have not been able to prove. Benjamin Franklin and Sarah (Sally) Garrett had ten children: Eliza A., b. 1841 in SC; Rapley (Ralph) b. 1842 SC; John b. Feb. 1844 SC; James A. b. Feb. 1850 SC; Manning b. 1851 S C; Mary Elizabeth b. 1853 in Georgia; Nathan b. May 18, 1857 in Ga.; Sarah Jane b. 1859 in Ga.; William Morgan b. 19 May 1862 in Ga. My grandfather was George Washington Garrett. He first married Leticia "Lou" Wallin and then Tennessee Armantha Brannon. [EDITOR'S NOTE: The Hiland cemetery does not appear in either of the volumes of the Laurens Co. cemetery books which have appeared to date. However, there is a Holland cemetery in Vol. 2 which has 14 stones which are said to be unreadable. This is at least a possibility. It is also possible that Hiland is correct and the cemetery has either not been surveyed yet or has been destroyed.]
